

LITTER

close your eyes

see only a flicker

unnamed it cannot be

grasped but despite all

it carries you to

an obscurity

leave each trace of light

to its gentle caress

let each murmur raise

to its own resolution

and the letter will flutter along engraving its course the point touches its other and the linear is encircled